

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a separator for separating envelope flaps from envelope bodies, of which the active separation zone is formed by a supply part which comprises a peripheral edge arranged at the level of an envelope conveyor deck.